

Placing Disease Experts in Local Communities

Kelly Science & Clinical partnered with a state department to source and place epidemiologists to investigate the transmission of Covid-19 in the area.

Our team was approached by a state department struggling to connect with epidemiologists to support their local response to the pandemic.

These specialists play a vital role in investigating the transmission of Covid-19. They look at factors like mode of transmission and population density to analyze the risk of infection and ensure the right measures are in place to protect local communities.

Kelly Science & Clinical was able to quickly suggest a list of qualified candidates and place 6 scientists in these roles.

We are now supporting the recruitment and placement of 50 epidemiologists within the department.

Thank you to the amazing members of the Kelly community – individuals and organizations – who are doing their part in the battle against this global health crisis.
